The story

The Learning Partnership for Gender Transformation is a participatory research project led by three organisations: H.O.P.E. Africa, NACOSA and the School of Public Health at University of the Western Cape (UWC). The project focused on learning about integrating gender and gender-transformative approaches into adolescent and young people's sexual and reproductive health and rights programmes. The project was implemented in Klipfontein, Cape Town between 2022 and 2025.

From the start, we struggled to find definitions in local languages of key gender terms that field staff are familiar with. We realised that there is a need for materials and resources describing basic gender terms that we could all use in conversation with young people and which are relevant to the local contexts and languages. We learned that it is important to start with the basics, such as the difference between concepts of "sex" and "gender", and to increase understanding about these and other gender-related concepts and terms, to prevent misunderstandings. For example, at the start of the research project, there was confusion between terms such as "gender transformation" and "transgender".

And so the idea of No Label was born – a glossary of key gender terms and concepts that peer facilitators and educators would need to understand when working with diverse young people around sexual and reproductive health rights and gender issues.

No Label is a tool in the toolbox of field staff, to support those who are working towards goals of good health, equal and inclusive societies.

As much as we want to promote understanding and learning of some of these gender and sexuality concepts, we also want to ensure unlearning of misunderstandings of terms that can be harmful.

No Label was developed as a starting point for discussion and understanding, with no desire to offend or support any form of stereotype or prejudice, or cause any harm.

This glossary has been shaped by how terms can be used in everyday interactions and conversations amongst peers. So we consulted with a group of 15 Influencers and Human Rights Ambassadors from local organisations, H.O.P.E Africa and Amandla Development. We also consulted with our colleagues from the Triangle Project to ensure that the process was inclusive of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex queer and (LGBTIQ+) young people.

You will see quotes from some of the H.O.P.E. Africa peer facilitators we worked with during the Learning Partnership. These quotes explain how they would use some of the key gender terms in workshops with young people. Over the course of our project, we learnt how important it was to create a safe space together, where we could ask one another questions, discuss the terms we were uncertain about and learn together.

Who is it for?

No Label is for peer facilitators and educators working in sexual and reproductive health programmes with and for adolescents and young people. It is important that they are familiar with some of the basic concepts around gender and sexuality, as they may be asked many questions by young people. They also need to be able to explain and discuss these terms with others in their own contexts.

The glossary is an additional resource for them to use in their work with young people and should ideally be contextualised in peer education programmes where they have already had some basic sexual and reproductive health rights training and can have on-going learning and mentoring support for their work, including any gender issues. It is not intended as a mass communication tool, or to be distributed in communities or other contexts without any facilitated discussion.

The main things

Some key principles guided us in the development of No Label:

- The importance of on-going capacity strengthening around key gender terms and concepts that are relevant to the different contexts in which we work.
- The principle of "do no harm" is essential – any discussions on gender should not intentionally or unintentionally cause harm or any form of discrimination, especially in terms of LGBTIQ+ people.
- It is a living document – as language and conceptual understandings change with time and in this field, particularly rapidly.
- The glossary is not meant to be exhaustive – we encourage you to build on this within your own context and programmes.

In creating No Label, we did not want to reinvent the wheel and so have also drawn on a range of valuable publications that have shaped our thinking and ways of working. Links to these resources are provided at the end of this booklet.

Alternative or slang words or terms

The writing team acknowledges that definitions and descriptions are always evolving and may not always match those of the official languages. We are well aware that some people may not define themselves in the ways described. Although it was created with input from a range of young people and those who work with LGBTIQ+ communities, it is not a definitive document for everyone's use.

Affirmation

Affirmation means showing support, respect, and recognition for someone's identity—especially their gender or sexuality. For example, using a person's chosen name and pronouns is a way of affirming who they are.

Allyship (Ally)

Allyship refers to the practice of actively supporting and advocating for marginalized groups, especially when someone is part of a group with more privilege. For example, an ally in the context of the LGBTIQ+ community is someone who is not part of the LGBTIQ+ group but stands up for their rights, supports their struggles, and works to create a more inclusive and equitable society.

Biological sex

A person's biological and physiological characteristics and features based on what kind of sex chromosomes they have in their genes, XY (female), XX (male), or some other combination (intersex). A person's sex is most often designated by a medical assessment at birth. This is also referred to as "sex assigned at birth".

Bisexual

A bisexual person is attracted to more than one gender. This attraction can be romantic, sexual, or emotional. Bisexual individuals may be attracted to men and women, or to people of different genders, including those who are non-binary. It's important to remember that bisexuality is a spectrum, and individual experiences vary.

Coming out

This term describes a process of self-acceptance wherein individuals acknowledge their identity, then share it with others. The terms also refer to an individual having to share their diverse SOGIESC with others, regardless of whether the disclosure is desired. This is sometimes called forced outing. For example, this may occur when an individual must share details about a same-gender spouse or show an ID that is not reflective of their gender expression. The concept and experience of coming out is not specific to every culture.

Cisgender/ism

A term for people whose gender identity matches the sex they were assigned at birth. A gender description for when someone's sex assigned at birth and gender identity correspond in the expected way (e.g. someone who was assigned male at birth, and identifies as a man). A simple way to think about it is if a person is not transgender, they are cisgender. The word cisgender can also be shortened to "cis."

Biseksueel

'n Biseksuele persoon is iemand wat romanties of seksueel aangetrokke is tot mense van meer as een geslag. Dit beteken dat hulle aangetrokke kan wees tot mense van die teenoorgestelde geslag, sowel as mense van dieselfde geslag. Biseksualiteit kan verskil van persoon tot persoon, en die maniere waarop mense hulself identifiseer en hoe hulle hul oriëntasie beleef, is uniek.

Kom uit (die kas uit)

Dit beskryf die proses van selfaanvaarding, waar mense hul identiteit erken en dit met ander deel. Die terme kan ook gebruik word wanneer iemand hul verskillende SOGIESC moet deel, al is hulle nie gewillig om dit te doen nie; dit word soms gedwonge uitkoms genoem. Byvoorbeeld, dit kan gebeur wanneer iemand moet vertel dat hulle 'n verhoudingsmaat van dieselfde geslag het, of hul ID moet wys wat nie hul geslagsuitdrukking weerspieël nie. Die idee en ervaring van kom uit is nie dieselfde in elke kultuur nie.

Cisgenderisme

Die woord "cis" kom oorspronklik uit die Latynse taal, waar dit "aan dieselfde kant" beteken. Dit is die teenoorgestelde van "trans", wat "aan die ander kant" beteken. Cisgender is 'n term vir mense wie se geslag waarmee hulle hulself identifiseer dieselfde is as die een wat aan hulle toegewys is toe hulle gebore is. Byvoorbeeld: as iemand as 'n seun gebore is en hy voel ook soos 'n man, dan is hy cisgender. 'n Maklike manier om dit te verstaan is: as iemand nie transgender is nie, is hulle cisgender. Die woord kan ook net cis genoem word.

ENGLISH

Gay

Experiencing attraction solely (or primarily) to some members of the same gender. The term gay can also be used to refer to men who are attracted to other men and women who are attracted to women. Gay can also be used as an umbrella term to refer to the queer community as a whole. At times it refers to men who sexually or romantically attracted to people of one's own sex.

Gender

Gender refers to the characteristics of women, men, girls and boys and people whose gender identities do not fit neatly into those categories (i.e., gender-diverse people), that are socially constructed. This includes norms, behaviours and roles associated with being a woman, man, girl or boy, as well as relationships with each other. As a social construct, gender varies from society to society and can change over time.

Ek kom uit 'n bende gemeenskap waar mans moet wys wat hy werklik is en dit is die boodskap wat jong manne vandag leer buitenkant – hulle moet wys dat hulle sterk is.

Gay persoon

'n Gay persoon is iemand wat romanties of seksueel aangetrokke is tot mense van dieselfde geslag. Hierdie term word meestal gebruik om te verwys na mans wat van ander mans hou, maar kan ook in 'n breër sin gebruik word om enige persoon wat homoseksueel is, aan te dui. Die term "gay" word dikwels gebruik as 'n oorhoofse benaming vir homoseksuele mense, ongeag of hulle 'n man of vrou is. Hoewel dit meestal vir mans gebruik word, kan dit ook vir lesbiese vroue gebruik word, al is "lesbiër" die meer spesifieke term vir vroue wat aangetrokke is tot ander vroue.

Sosiale geslag

Sosiale geslag of gender verwys na die rolle, gedrag en verwagtinge wat deur die samelewing en kultuur aan vroue, mans, meisies, seuns – en ook mense wat nie netjies in dié kategorieë pas nie – gegee word. Hierdie rolle en verwagtinge is nie natuurlik of onveranderlik nie; dit is deur mense gemaak en verskil van een kultuur na 'n ander, en dit kan oor tyd verander.

Gender-based violence

Gender-based violence is used to distinguish violence that targets individuals or groups of individuals on the basis of their gender from other forms of violence. It includes any act which results in, or is likely to result in physical, sexual, psychological or emotional and economic abuse of gender relations.

Gender binary

The classification of sex and gender into two distinct, opposite and disconnected forms of masculine and feminine.

Gender-diverse

A gender-diverse person is someone who may not identify with the sex that they were assigned at birth. This term describes the range of identities and expressions people experience along a gender spectrum. Other terms which are similar, and which individuals may feel more comfortable using, include gender non-conforming, non-binary, and gender queer.

Geslagsgeweld of gendergeweld

Geslagsgeweld is enige tipe geweld wat teen iemand gepleeg word omdat hulle 'n vrou, man, gay, lesbies, trans, of van 'n ander geslag of seksuele identiteit is. Dit sluit dinge soos feminicide (vroue wat vermoor word omdat hulle vroue is), verkragting, aanranding, dreigemente, beledigings, huishoudelike geweld, of seksuele teistering in. Geslagsgeweld kom in verskillende vorme voor – fisies, emocioneel, seksueel, ekonomies en selfs digitaal.

Geslagstweeledigheid of gendertweeledigheid

Geslagstweeledigheid is die idee dat daar net twee geslagte is – man en vrou – en dat elke persoon een van hierdie twee moet wees, gebaseer op hulle biologiese geslagsorgane by geboorte. Gendertweeledigheid is die siening dat daar net twee (sosiale geslagsrolle) genderolle is – manlik en vroulik – en dat mense hulself volgens daardie rolle moet gedra en identifiseer.

Gender-uiteenlopend

Gender-uiteenlopend verwys na mense wie se geslag of manier van wees nie pas by die tradisionele verwagtinge van "man" of "vrouw" nie. Dit beteken iemand se kleredrag, gedrag, gevoelens of identiteit stem dalk nie ooreen met wat die samelewing gewoonlik verwag van hul geboortegeslag nie. Byvoorbeeld, 'n seun wat rokke dra, of 'n meisie wat nie met die term "meisie" identifiseer nie – dit is vorme van geslag-uiteenlopendheid. Dis belangrik om te verstaan dat geslag nie net twee opsies is nie (man of vrou), maar 'n spektrum van moontlikhede.

Geslagsnorme

Geslagsnorme is die reëls of verwagtinge wat mense het oor hoe mans en vroue (of seuns en dogters) moet optree, aan trek of wees. Hierdie norme word deur die samelewing gemaak, nie deur die natuur nie. Hierdie reëls of verwagtinge word soms so sterk geglo dat mense dit nie eers bevraagteken nie. Dit kan sigbaar wees (soos in wette of reëls) of onsigbaar (soos hoe kinders grootgemaak word). Wat mense dink "normaal" is vir mans en vroue, verander ook oor tyd en tussen verskillende plekke.

Dis basies die maniere waarop geslag (gender) mense se plek in die huis, werk en gemeenskap beïnvloed – soos wie werk kry, wie die kinders grootmaak, of wie die meeste sê het in 'n verhouding of gemeenskap.

ENGLISH

Gender roles

Socially and culturally constructed expectations that dictate which behaviours, traits, activities, tasks and responsibilities are acceptable, appropriate or desirable for individuals based on their gender.

Gender roles stem from gender norms and power relations. They interact with other identity factors, including sexual orientation, age, class, race, caste, ethnicity, citizenship status, migration status, religion and disability, and are shaped by geographical, social, economic and political contexts.

Gender socialisation

Process by which individuals learn the gender and cultural behaviours and roles associated with the concepts of femininity or masculinity and what is expected in our society. This is linked to ideas about gender stereotypes and norms and can limit your freedom of expression and who you want to associate with. For example, boys who play with dolls and with girls are often ridiculed and called homophobic names, such as "moffie" (meaning gay).

ENGLISH

Transition

Transition refers to the personal process that some transgender or gender-diverse people go through to live as the gender they identify with. This can involve (socially and medically) changes in name, pronouns, clothing, medical treatment (like hormones or surgery), or social roles—but not everyone chooses or has access to all of these steps.

Transition is often politicised because it challenges rigid ideas about gender. Access to gender-affirming healthcare, legal gender recognition, and public acceptance varies widely and is often shaped by laws, cultural norms, and power structures. In many places, trans people still face discrimination, restricted rights, or medical gatekeeping.

Women who have sex with women

Women who have sex with women (WSW) is a term used in public health and research to describe females who engage in sexual activity with other females, regardless of how they identify (e.g., lesbian, bisexual, straight). Like MSM, it focuses on behavior rather than identity.

Transisie

Transisie verwys na die persoonlike proses waardeur sommige transgender of geslagsdiverse mense gaan om as die geslag waarmee hulle identifiseer te leef. Dit kan veranderinge in naam, voornaamwoorde, klere, mediese behandeling (soos hormone of chirurgie), of sosiale rolle insluit—maar nie almal kies of het toegang tot al hierdie stappe nie. Transisie is dikwels polities omdat dit vaste idees oor geslag bevraagteken.

Toegang tot geslagbevestigende gesondheidsorg, wetlike erkenning van geslag, en publieke aanvaarding verskil baie en word beïnvloed deur wette, kultuurnorme en magsverhoudings. In baie plekke ervaar trans mense steeds diskriminasie, beperkte regte, of mediese hindernisse.

Vroue wat seks het met vroue

Vroue wat seks het met vroue (WSW) is 'n term wat in openbare gesondheid en navorsing gebruik word om vroue te beskryf wat seksueel aktief is met ander vroue, ongeag hoe hulle hulself identifiseer (soos lesbies, biseksueel of hetero). Die fokus is op gedrag, nie identiteit nie.

Brief history of LGBTIQ+ and SOGIESC terminology

The term LGBTIQ+ emerged to acknowledge a wide range of identities related to sexuality and gender, aiming for inclusivity, but its ever-expanding and complex nature has proven problematic for the clarity required in international human rights law. In contrast, the term SOGIESC – which stands for sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, and sex characteristics – has gained traction among global human rights advocates as a more precise, inclusive, and universally applicable framework. Rather than listing identities, SOGIESC centers shared human experiences and rights, much like freedom of religion protects beliefs without naming specific faiths. This shift avoids exclusion, respects cultural diversity without imposing Western labels, and better serves legal, policy, and grassroots activism by offering stability and adaptability in defending the rights of all people, regardless of how identities evolve or differ globally.

ISIXHOSA

Imbali emfutshane ye-LGBTIQ+ kune nesigama se-SOGIESC

Kort geskiedenis van LGBTIQ+ en SOGIESC terminologie

Die term LGBTIQ+ het ontstaan om 'n wye reeks identiteite wat met seksualiteit en geslag verband hou, te erken en insluiting te bevorder, maar die voortdurend uitbreidende en vae aard daarvan het problematies geblyk vir die duidelikheid wat internasionale menseregtewette vereis. In teenstelling hiermee het die term SOGIESC – wat staan vir seksuele oriëntasie, geslagsidentiteit en -uitdrukking, en geslagskenmerke – steeds meer steun gekry onder globale menseregte-aktiviste as 'n meer presiese, inklusiewe en universeel toepasbare raamwerk. In plaas daarvan om spesifieke identiteite op te som, plaas SOGIESC die fokus op gedeelde menslike ervarings en regte, soortgelyk aan hoe godsdiensvryheid beskerming bied sonder om spesifieke gelowe te benoem. Hierdie benadering voorkom uitsluiting, respekteer kulturele diversiteit sonder om Westerse etikette op te dwing, en dien regs-, beleids- en gemeenskapsaktivisme beter deur stabiliteit en aanpasbaarheid te bied in die beskerming van almal se regte, ongeag hoe identiteite oor tyd ontwikkel of kultureel verskil.
